2. Mr. Mandel, of the staff of the E called to state that the Committee would	have as a witness on 29 March a Latvian now a	n American citizen and author of STAT Thi	is book is alleged to be heavily pro-STAT Communist. Mr. Mandel stated that the	Committee would like to have, in confidence, any information we had conc appropriate Baltic refugee of sufficient e	minence to testify concerning the "slant" of "The Baltic Riddle" and certain	in facts in connection with it. After STAT consultation with	told Mr. Mandel that the best refugee we might recommend was	the last Minister STAT of Public Affairs in Latvia, who was con	sidered to be well versed in the ins and outs of Communism. I suggestee	d to Mr. Mandel that he might wish to check with the Kersten Committee inv	estigating the takeover of the Baltic nations as to their suggested for a witner	ss and as to the effectiveness of Daming when he enneared before their (
